

6175 Update about the ongoing EU conflict minerals legislation process (Webinar)

Following the Wall Street Reform Bill "Dodd-Frank", according to which in the US listed companies must declare each year, whether they use minerals from the DRC or a neighboring country (now often called "conflict minerals") there are plannings on the EU level for an appropriate regulation that even to go further than the US model. This webinar will cover the current state of the legislative process and the possible consequences for your company.

Objective

You know the current status of the EU draft, understand how the legislative process works and what kind of law we might have in the future. You also have an overview of the steps that the draft has been through so far and where it differs from the Dodd-Frank Act. You can assess whether your company could be affected in the future by the EU rules on conflict minerals (in its present form) and know tools with which you can fulfill any requirements for reporting conflict minerals.
